THE EAST YOUNGSTOWN RIOT

Scenes never before known to this locality were enacted by strikers of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company at East Youngstown Friday night and Saturday when many business blocks and residences were burned to the ground at an estimated loss of $1,000,000. Men crazed with drink smashed in windows of stores, looted the contents and then set fire to the buildings.

The destruction was wanton, the foreigners smashing windows in any and every store they happened to see; shooting revolvers through windows and into crowds and breaking whisky bottles in the streets as fast as they could carry them from the saloons. All this lawlessness was committed upon buildings occupied and owned by people not in any way interested in the strike or the company employing the men. The plant itself was not harmed.

To the credit of the state federation of labor, it may be said that that organization not only denounces such acts of violence, but demands a thorough investigation by the state. Many aliens put the blame on booze and professional looters from other places swarming the village. They claim that before outsiders arrived in Youngstown strikers did not attempt violence and they surely would not have changed their minds after organizers repeatedly warned them against force. Some press reports tell us that the shooting and subsequent rioting were started by guards on the bridge who fired first, but their act saved from destruction a $400,000 plant and gave the rioters no cause whatsoever for burning and looting private property.

Instead of having advanced their cause, instead of having injured their former employers, these strikers have made homeless many families and have ruined several small merchants, while they have branded themselves as outlaws and undeserving of sympathy. Severe punishment of the ringleaders, that it may serve as an example to instigators of strike riots throughout the country, is imperative. This and an impartial scrutiny of the influence which caused the strike are immediate duties of the state and it is pleasing to note that the state is actively pursuing these duties.—Salem News.

Find New Disinfectant.

According to the United States public health service, a new disinfectant, derived from pine oil, a by-product in the manufacture of turpentine, possesses qualities superior to ordinary disinfectants, being more than four times as powerful as carbolic acid for disinfecting purposes, yet non-toxic and without harmful effects when it comes in contact with delicate membranes or with fabrics or metals. This discovery is particularly valuable at this time because of the shortage of coal tar derivatives for disinfectant purposes.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney &amp; Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials.

CLOSER TIES ARE URGED BETWEEN THE AMERICAS

The American Republics Should Stick Together in Peace and War to Prove Integrity of American Soil.

Washington, Jan. 14.—A binding agreement among American republics to stick together in peace and in war to prove the integrity of American soil was urged by Dr. Juan de Dios Garcia Kohly, Cuban minister to The Hague, before the Pan-American Scientific congress Wednesday.

It is not enough, Dr. Kohly insisted, that the United States should be bound by the Monroe doctrine to go to the aid of the American republic. He declared the South and Central American countries should similarly be bound to go to the aid of the United States should it be threatened with war with an European or Asiatic power.

Dr. Kohly's address was one of the strongest arguments for a league of neutral nations in the western hemisphere heard during the sessions of the congress. It made a marked impression on the delegates.

The policy of the American nations should be decided at once, he insisted, "since in the ominous event of the outbreak of an armed conflict it is certain that this question must be confronted and all the people of America should be prepared to meet it."

"Although the Monroe doctrine is a product and labor of the United States," Dr. Kohly continued, "and the action taken by that nation gives a title to the gratitude of sister nations, it is beyond question that the latter cannot logically nor would it be convenient for the destinies of America to leave the United States alone in its action in case of a conflict between an American republic and an European power; on the other hand, they should join in its action as a token of well understood solidarity."

"By doing so it would not be a powerful nation of America lending support to another nation of the same continent, but the new world in its harmonious complexion would rise as one spirit and one body, inspired by one and the same idea, to oppose the danger attempting to debase the integrity of the American soil."

Dr. Kohly added that this new policy of the American republics could be put into operation "in peace as well as in war."

Dr. Luis Alfredo Otero, Colombian delegate to the congress, urged that among the propositions of Pan-Americanism should be included the solemn proclamation that "America will not suffer colonization" and that the "doctrine of intervention should be abolished."

Manuel Castro Ramirez of Salvador insisted that "America should observe an active neutrality in the face of European conflicts." The acquisition of naval bases he regarded as a veiled form of territory appropriation.

A resolution introduced before the international law section of the congress and referred to the executive committee "applauded the declarations made by President Wilson in his message of Dec. 7 to congress. Explaining and amplifying the Monroe doctrine, because it regards them as a true definition of Pan-Americanism." Today President Wilson will deliver an address to the congress.

SAVING AT THE SPIGOT AND WASTING AT THE BUNGHOLE

There is an economy that saves at the spigot and wastes at the bunghole. To practice economy in little things and forget it in the larger ones is no economy at all. To walk a mile in order to save five cents car fare may not be good policy, for the time may be worth many times the saving. It has been figured out that it does not pay a carpenter to stoop down to pick up a nail, for the time he wastes would buy two nails. You often see men and boys in the big city dashing in front of autos, dodging trolley cars and taking desperate chances with their lives to save a few moments time, and then stop for ten or fifteen minutes to watch some gentleman in a window advertising a corn cure. Be consistent!

It never pays to buy something simply because it is cheap. If you do not need it, it is dear at any price. The woman who is eager for bargains and buys simply because she cannot resist the temptation to get a bargain has swindled herself. True value consists in getting the maximum return for the money spent.

Last summer a woman bought six baskets of peaches that were spotted, and thought she bought them cheap, and her economical soul was exultant; but when she found she had fewer cans than if she had bought sound fruit, and the scraps were useless for "peach butter," and in her anxiety to get them canned before they spoiled she worked herself sick and let the syrup boil until it crystallized, she realized that there are some bargains that are not bargains.

When a wave of economy strikes the household, the wife generally decides to save on the table, which is all very well, provided she knows how. But to buy cheap meats and stale vegetables may be the poorest sort of economy.

There are some cuts of beef as nourishing as porterhouse at one-third less the cost; but to buy bone and gristle for beef is to deceive yourself. If the family eats no fat, buy lean cuts. Pork chops can be had with practically no fat or bone at all. These are the loin chops. Rump roast is all meat and no bone and goes a long way because there is no waste. In the matter of clothing costly economy can be practiced. Two pairs of two dollar shoes will not last half as long as one pair of four dollar ones. Gingham costs more than calico, but it wears longer and looks better. It costs just as much to make a dress of calico as of gingham and the only difference is the small saving in material cost, which is over-balanced by the short wear. A remnant is not cheap unless you can use it.

It may pay a woman to do her own laundry, but if she breaks her health it is costly washing. You can save it by doing without eating—at least eating it down to stopping the craving for food. You can eat candy just before dinner and not want soup and meat; but that is saving money to hire a doctor. True economy does consist in doing without some things—needless luxuries, but not in doing without the necessities of life. There are many ways to save, but look out that in saving at the spigot you don't forget the bunghole.—Adv.
